

LAWEEKLY

Blogs

NEWS ▾ | CALENDAR ▾ | MUSIC ▾ | RESTAURANTS ▾ | ARTS ▾ | FILM ▾ | BEST OF ▾ | PROMOS ▾ | CLASSIFIEDS ▾ | MORE + Search

BEST OF... VOICE PLACES GET THE BEST 24 HOURS A DAY Download the free app at bestof.voice

TOP
blog
STORIES

Best of LA.
Top 10 Vintage & Second-Hand Boutiques in

By Caroline Ryder

Cult Stars
A Video Game Where You Can Play Rodney King?

By Liz Ohanesian

5 Artsy Things to Art to Check Out, Including Google Street View Disasters

By Catherine Wagley

Art Three Prop Art F

By Catherine Wa

Art & Technology

Eddo Stern's Experimental Video Games Merge Art With Online Role-Playing and Virtual Reality

By Catherine Wagley Wed., Jun. 6 2012 at 10:47 AM

Categories: Art, Art & Technology, Galleries

Like Send Tweet 6 Stm 0

Quote: I have 3, going on 4, by the way, kids. Served 15 years in the military

Courtesy the artist

Screenshot from Eddo Stern's Best Flame War Ever (2007)

Leegattenby King of Bards and Squire Rex, both better-than-average players of the online role-playing game Everquest, faced off in 2004. Leegattenby wanted to know how something called "armor class" worked, and asked about it on a forum. Rex said

Leegattenby sounded like a noob. Leegattenby mentioned that he had spent 15 years in the

Most Popular Stories

- Viewed Commented Recent
- Jenna Marbles: The YouTube Star
- Top 10 Vintage and Second-Hand I
- Boys Who Like Girls: Three Theoric
Are Into This Show
- Jenna Marbles, YouTube Star: Out
People Issue Interview
- Andy Cohen's Most Talkative Book
Addict's Wet Dream

TODAY'S DEAL

SAVE 50%

REBA McENTIRE

OPENING HOLLYWOOD BOWL
Fri JUN 22

Leegattenby sounded like a hood. Leegattenby mentioned that he had spent 15 years in the military, and Rex said he'd like to smack Leegattenby's face silly for "talking tales from the crypt" about his past life. So Leegattenby suggested they meet for a "grudge fight," preferably at a tough-man contest or a bar with a boxing ring. "I have did this before and it is no big deal," he wrote.

Artist Eddo Stern was playing Everquest at the time and watched this war of words unfold. "That was one of the forums I visited every day," he says. He documented the exchange and, in 2007, made the video Best Flamewar Ever. It will screen at Young Projects starting June 8, along with other work by Stern that mines the gap between virtual and real life.

In Best Flamewar, the real-life Leegattenby and Rex don't appear but are embodied by monstrous talking heads made up of Everquest fan art -- Leegattenby has swords sticking out from his temple and a half-clothed lady warrior beside his mouth. Rex has one green dragon on his lower left chin and another on the right side of his head.

Courtesy the artist

Screenshot from Eddo Stern's Darkgame

Because he needed someone uncontrived to give these characters voice, Stern enlisted his mother, who has a distinct Israeli accent, to play former soldier Leegattenby and asked his wife to play "punk-ass" Rex. But the dialogue feels so overtly, conventionally masculine, you don't notice the feminine pitch in the voices.

"Leegattenby has this more old-fashioned, honor-based idea of masculinity," Stern says. "You could even say it's naive."

He expects respect for his real-life credentials. "There's one point where Leegattenby says, 'It's because of me and my brothers in arms ...' that Rex is even able to be on these forums," Stern recalls. That interested him, the idea that fighting for capitalism and world domination in life would give people the privilege to get lost in these simulated, online worlds.

After Leegattenby tries to set up a tough-man fight, another user calls him a tool and Leegattenby apologizes. Then yet another user "thanks him for his service," and he launches into a heartfelt monologue about a friend killed in action. By the end of the video, Rex has disappeared, leaving Leegattenby with his "tales from the crypt."

Stern, who now teaches art at UCLA and runs the Game Lab there, studied math and philosophy but became frustrated by how cerebral those fields were; he then turned to art. He worked briefly for a virtual-reality company, though much of what he knows about game- and video-making he's learned through trial and error.

In the early '90s, after graduating with an MFA from CalArts, he worked on games like

Public Spectacle - L.A. We Culture on Facebook

Like

643 people like Public Spectacle Arts & Culture.

Facebook social plugin

Sign up for free info & more!

enter email

Slideshows

LinA in L.A.: H Festival.

MTV Movie Awards

Gumball 3000 Angeles

Mc

Tools

Search Public Spectacle

Search

For

ser

Categories...

Archiv

OTCBB:NVMN Investment

The ONLY American Diamond Company Traded on a US

5 Foods to NE Cut down a bit

In the early '00s, after graduating with an MFA from CalArts, he worked on games like Waco Resurrection, in which players enter the body and psyche of a resurrected David Koresh, the infamous cult leader, by wearing a mask of his face. Sounds of government psy-ops and SWAT teams bombard them and they can access powers Koresh claimed to have by speaking his religious creed into a microphone.

"I'm drawn to the logic of video games but also repulsed by it," Stern says. "The more elaborate or complex, the more total and successful the simulation, the more that line [between life and the virtual] seems to blur." Usually, when you're playing a game, the virtual space is actually taking over. "All of a player's life concerns are manifesting there."

Courtesy the artist.

Headsets for Stern's Darkgame

Stern wants his gaming systems to cross over into physical experience. Around 2005, he began work on Darkgame, a virtual-reality game that uses haptic technology, which incorporates players' sense of feel. Players wear a headset with small motors embedded into pressure points, giving them tactile feedback, allowing them to sense, for instance, that someone is following them. As you play, you can either gain or lose sense of sight, hearing and touch.

The first headset Stern designed included a black head-covering, because images of John Walker Lindh, the "American Taliban" who was famously transported with a hood over his head, had seared their way into his memory (though the new headset includes no such covering).

Players who are already hard of hearing or unable to see can opt to give up hearing or sight from the start, in exchange for other heightened senses. The latest version of the game debuts in his Young Projects exhibition, and Stern has been testing this version at the Braille Institute in L.A., where few of the sight-impaired volunteers have ever played multiplayer games that involve a joystick.

Games like that, which dissolve the differences between the senses, just don't exist. But this game has a life outside the screen.

"The World is Down: 10 Works by Eddo Stern" is at Young Projects, Pacific Design Center, #B230, 8687 Melrose Ave., W. Hlywd., June 8-July 27. Opening reception is on Thursday, June 11, 7-9pm. Tickets are $10.

belly every wee eating these 5 f

7 odd veggies
KILL your sto
Surprising food
boost your meta:
a flat stomach

Services

Health & Beauty

R.D.C Reseda Discount
View Ad | View Site

UCLA Extension
View Ad | View Site

Concorde Career College
View Ad | View Site

CAMCART HOLDINGS, LLC
View Ad | View Site

Twitter Feed

Follow laweeklyarts on Twitter

LAWeeklyArts MT @jillstewart: Ray E about Fahrenheit 451: We, not govern enslaving ourselves. blogs.laweekly.c

...
12 minutes ago · reply · retweet · favorit

LAWeeklyArts RT @villagevoice: Ray Have Hated Your Blog Post, Tweet, c About His Death bit.ly/LILbCo
16 hours ago · reply · retweet · favorit

LAWeeklyArts Eddo Stern of UCLA G (@uclagames): new exhibit merges a reality and online role-playing ow.ly/bj
18 hours ago · reply · retweet · favorit

LAWeeklyArts RT @nessickles: Boys Three Theories on Why Men Are Into mustsee. blogs.laweekly.com/arts/20 @LAWeeklyArts
19 hours ago · reply · retweet · favorit

LAWeeklyArts 5 artsy things to do this tattoo art trailblazers ow.ly/bp39i @la: @MOCAlosangeles @foryourart @Ari
19 hours ago · reply · retweet · favorit

Follow @cgwagley and @LAWeeklyArts on Twitter, and also like us on Facebook.

Location Info

Young Projects

8687 Melrose Ave., West Hollywood, CA

Category: General

Like this Story?

Sign up for the Arts Newsletter: Get the latest news and offers from the LA art scene sent directly to your email address. Exclusive events and art related sales you won't hear about anywhere else!

Tags:

eddo stern, gaming, video art, young projects

Write Comment Email to Friend Print Article

0

Related Content

Marilyn Monroe's Seven Never-Before-Seen Mostly Nude Photos at Duncan Miller Gallery. You're Welcome. \(Public Spectacle\)

Top 10 Vintage and Second-Hand Boutiques in L.A. \(Public Spectacle\)

Michael Jackson's Art and Studio, Revealed for the First Time \(Public Spectacle\)

Paid Distribution

7 Best Celebrity Owned Liquors \(Rock UR Party\)

[?]

Like

Add New Comment

Optional: Login below.

Post as ...

Showing 0 comments

Sort by Oldest first Subscribe by email Subscribe by RSS

Real-time updating is paused. \(Resume\)

Build the Naval Railgun Super Weapon OTCBB: NVMN - New Investment.

Cut down a bit of your belly every week By never eating these 5 foods.

Surprising foods that boost your metabolism for a flat stomach. Get details...